

You're invited.

Traditionally, most facility managers “fell into” the profession. However, the growing number of high school, university and professional training programs around the world is changing this dynamic. So, how did “traditional” FMs gain and expand their industry knowledge, and how will this shift as a clear path to the industry becomes increasingly established?

FMJ award-winning author and IFMA past board member Bill Conley, CFM, SFP, FMP, IFMA Fellow, LEED AP will engage panelists of diverse backgrounds and experience in a dialogue involving their unique FM stories, including how each of the panelists first learned about the FM industry and the ways in which practitioners can best grow and share the FM body of knowledge.

What: Panel discussion on knowledge sharing in FM hosted by IFMA’s FMJ magazine at IFMA’s World Workplace 2015 Conference and Expo

When: Wednesday, Oct. 7
8:30-9:30 a.m. MT

Where: Colorado Convention Center Room 504
